

This Week at SASLI

JULY 28 - AUGUST 1

Thank you for such a great Summer at SASLI! We hope you enjoyed your time here in Madison and that you learned a lot too!

For a full list of SASLI events visit: <http://www.sasli.wisc.edu/events.html>

For more updates, like us on Facebook!

“The Indus Civilization and its Writing: Recent Discoveries and Controversies”

Presented by Mark Kenoyer

On Wednesday, July 30th, in 206 Ingraham Hall at 1:45PM The Director of SASLI, Mark Kenoyer, will be presenting “The Indus Civilization and its Writing: Recent Discoveries and Controversies”. Dr. Kenoyer is a professor in anthropology, who teaches archaeology and ancient technology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. He has taught here since 1985, and has previously served as the director of the Center for South Asia on campus. Dr. Kenoyer has been excavating at Harappa, Pakistan, since 1986 as field director of the Harappa Archaeological Research Project in collaboration with the Department of Archaeology and Museums of the government of Pakistan. His main focus is on the Indus Valley Civilization, with interests in ancient technologies and crafts, socio-economic and political organization, and religion. These interests have led him to study a broad range of cultural periods in South Asia, as well as other regions of the world. His publications include monographs on the Indus civilization, as well as numerous articles, a grade school book on ancient South Asia, and even a coloring book on the Indus cities for children.

Study Break!

On Friday, August 1st at 1:30PM SASLI will be hosting an afternoon study break in Ingraham 206! The room is yours to study or socialize with other SASLI students before the last week of the program. Chai & samosas will be available for an afternoon snack! Come when you can and we hope to see you there!

